

Hello Everyone - - I first want to thank Jason Flatt from Elijah's Promise for his help in compiling the attached information from the local school districts in Middlesex County and for attempting to update pantry days and hours of distribution and any changes in policies and procedures during this health crisis.

Please feel free to refer to the attached listing of available school meals to refer those in need while schools are not in session. Also, if your pantry will be closing, changing hours or changing the process by which you distribute food please let us know. Jason is going to attempt to help keep up to date information on pantry access so we can accurately direct those in need to food resources. Please email Jason jason.flatt@elijahspromise.org with any updates or changes to your service.

We are going to try to keep updating information daily/weekly as information changes.

Please be reminded – MCFOODS will be open again tomorrow and Wednesday and we will continue to be open as often as possible – stay tuned to your emails for updates. We are working with Community Food Bank of NJ, Feeding Middlesex County and other product distributors to acquire more food to share with our partners while taking necessary safety precautions for our staff, volunteers and partners. Please remember every individual entering the facility MUST sign in, we have latex gloves available for anyone who would like them as well as antibacterial wipes. When moving through the warehouse please be respectful of everyone around and keep a safe distance apart.

Thank you to all of you for continuing to work together to serve our community!
